

CRESTED GECKO ARRIVAL CARE

Congrats on your new gecko!

A calm start helps your new gecko settle in safely.

1 GIVE THEM TIME

Allow at least 2 weeks to settle in with very little handling. Confirm they are eating, drinking, and pooping. Travel and a new environment can be stressful.

2 QUARANTINE

As a standard reptile-keeping practice, quarantine your new gecko for at least 4 weeks.

3 ENCOURAGE EATING

If your gecko is hesitant to eat, offer the included Crested Gecko Diet. This particular flavor is one of your new gecko's favorites. If needed, try mixing in only a very tiny drop of honey.

OFFER WATER

Once you put your gecko in its quarantine enclosure, include a small bowl of water and also give the enclosure a light mist of water.

RARE: REHYDRATION SUPPORT

This is RARE, but dehydration can sometimes occur during travel, especially if the gecko had any travel delays. If you notice your gecko not eating and also very sluggish and losing balance - rehydrate by putting them in a deli cup with a mix of a reptile electrolyte solution or human-type electrolyte drink (like Pedialyte or a reptile-specific brand) at about 75% electrolyte solution + 25% water deep enough to touch their belly. Leave the gecko in the cup supervised for 30 minutes.
